Application for Voluntary Service Animal Identification Card For Individuals with Disabilities

- New Application
- Renewal
- Replacement Card

Attached is a voluntary application for a Service Animal identification card for individuals with disabilities. Service animals are defined as animals (usually dogs) which have been trained or are being trained to aid or guide a person with a disability and are accompanying persons with disabilities. All service animals must be harnessed or leashed.

Anyone traveling on the subway or bus system with a service animal may be asked to describe the task(s) that the animal performs upon request by NYC Transit personnel. Any individual who does not comply can be excluded from a NYC Transit facility or vehicle.

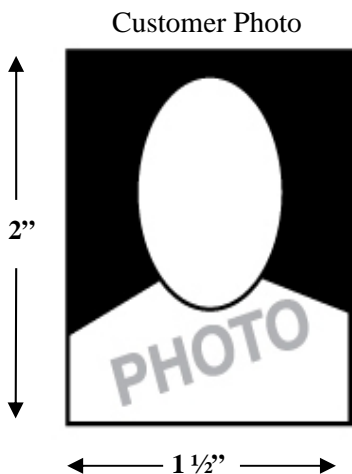

Identification is not required when a person with a disability travels the transit system with a service animal. However, persons who wish to apply for an MTA NYC Transit Service Animal Identification Card on a voluntary basis can complete and sign the attached application form. MTA NYC Transit encourages the use of the identification cards to avoid misunderstandings in communications between our personnel and our customers with disabilities as to whether the animal you are traveling with is a service animal or a pet. Customers are not permitted to travel with pets or therapy animals, unless they are in enclosed carriers. Federal regulations state that, animals whose sole function is to provide comfort or emotional support do not qualify as service animals under the ADA.

If you are unable to complete the form yourself, you can have someone assist you. Once the form is completed, please return it to:
